MILWAUKEE DAILY SENTINEL.

VOLUME XV. MILWAUKEE, SATURDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 27, 1858. NUMBER 49.

THE DAILY SENTINEL.

SATURDAY MORNING, FEB'Y 27.

The News.

We have news of considerable interest from Washington, and elsewhere, this morning. The defeat of the Army Bill in the Senate, is said not to be consider conclusive against the increase of the army, as the bill pending in the House will be patched up so as to be accepted by the Senate. The House Committee have come to no conclusion respecting the election of Mr. Campbell of Ohio. The U. S. Supreme Court adjourned yesterday to meet again on the 1st of April. Hon. James B. Clay, of Ky., is again in his seat, receiving the congratulations of his friends. Mr. Potter, of this State, denounced, in the House, a slanderous article which appeared in the Norfolk Argus, in relation to himself and others, as entirely false. A large number of petitions have lately been presented to the House for the enactment of the Homestead Bill; also for the passage of a bankrupt law. Mr. Smith, of Tenn., spoke upon the subject of disunion.—He expressed himself opposed to dissolution, but he was of opinion that if it ever came, it would be the States, and not Congress, which would bring it on.

Gov. Walker has written a letter to the Indiana Anti-Lecompton Convention, which it is said is in more earnest opposition to the President's course, than anything he has heretofore expressed.

A man whose name is supposed to be Chas. L. Taylor, has been arrested for setting fire to the Pacific Hotel at St. Louis, and murdering a man named E. Drake, one of its inmates. The landlord, Dr. Stader, has also been arrested for some connection with the matter.

In our State Senate yesterday, a bill passed extending the time for the collection of taxes in the Counties of Jackson, Ozaukee and others, and a message was received from the Governor vetoing the bill to extend the time for the collection of taxes in the County of Eagle. Petitions were presented from the citizens of Rock County, asking for the restoration of capital punishment. In the Assembly the Special Committee reported in favor of a division of Marquette County. A bill passed to authorize Sheboygan County to loan its credit to purchase a poor farm, and several others.

The New York markets was reported dull without material change. The stock market was also dull, though it closed firmer. Our market was rather active yesterday, and the receipts of produce of every description were largely increasing.

The weather was delightfully pleasant overhead, but the streets were mostly swimming in mud.

Terrible Tragedy at Berlin—A Madman Murders his Brother.

For the Sentinel.

BERLIN, Feb. 25th 1858.

MESSRS. EDITORS: — Our city has been the scene of intense excitement to-day, occasioned by the sudden and violent death of one of our citizens, George C. Wright, by the hands of an insane brother. The deceased was taking his brother to the lock-up, where he had been confined in the morning, but had broken out by wrenching an iron bar off the door, and when inside, was asked by the latter to make a fire for him which he readily consented to do, and stooped down to open the stove door, when the insane man seized the bar broken from the door in the morning and struck him a tremendous blow across the temple, the end of the bar striking an inch and a half into his brain. He lived a few hours entirely insensible to the last. Mr. Lear, the keeper, came up just as the fatal blow was struck. The poor maniac was in the act of striking his victim a second time, when Mr. L. rushed upon him and succeeded in overpowering him. The deceased leaves a wife and two children, and a large circle of relatives and friends. Yours, &c., W.

SALUTE.—A salute was fired yesterday afternoon, by the artillery squad of the Light Guard, in compliment to Major General JOHN HATHAWAY, commanding the First Division Wisconsin Militia, who was absent from the State at the time of his appointment and had just returned home.

THE MONEY MARKET IN ENGLAND—SIX MILLIONS SUBSCRIBED IN ONE DAY.—No better evidence of the abundance of Money in England can be furnished than is contained in the significant paragraph which announces that subscriptions were invited for £1,184,000 6 per cent, debentures of the Grand Trunk Railway of Canada which were all taken up in one day at 97.—The swallowing up of a six-million-dollar subscription in a single day is something to talk about, after such a severe depression as we have witnessed in Railway bonds.

MADISON CHARTER ELECTION.—The "regular" democracy of Madison have nominated GEO. B. SMITH, late Attorney General, for Mayor, J. K. PROUDFIT for Treasurer, and A. B. BRALEY for Police Justice, as well as a full set of candidates for ward officers. The election comes off on Monday next. The Republicans hold a convention to nominate candidates this evening.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON THE MILITIA.—We publish this morning, the report of Senator WALSH of this county, from the Committee on the Militia, in favor of the bill providing for the organization of the Militia of this State.—The report is well drawn and will, we hope, commend the subject to the favorable consideration of the Legislature.

MADISON GUARDS.—At a meeting of this company held last week, the following gentlemen were nominated, by a committee appointed for that purpose at a previous meeting, and unanimously elected:

Captain—John Williams.
1st Lieut.—John A Byrne.
2nd do Thomas Heenan.
3d do Matthew Smith.
Orderly Sergeant—John B. Highland.

We are informed that the company is not composed exclusively of Irishmen as we stated some days since, and that it is open to all good citizens who desire to join.—Madison Argus.

Madison now rejoices in two Military Companies, both well organized, and well officered.—Commissary Gen. BOTH is very active in encouraging and aiding the formation of Military Companies in all the principal towns of the State.

A STEAM PROPELLER FOR THE ERIE CANAL.—We see by a paragraph in the Buffalo Commercial, that a propeller is now in progress of construction in that city for this purpose, which will be in readiness for the opening of navigation.—It is expected to accomplish the trip to New York and back in twelve days, and that at a rate of speed not to exceed three miles per hour.

CATHOLIC FEMALE ACADEMY AND CHURCH DESTROYED.—On Saturday morning, about four o'clock, the Loretto Female Academy, situated on the line of the railroad between New Haven and Lebanon, in Kentucky, and about twelve miles from the latter place, was destroyed by fire, together with the church, the clothing of the Sisters and scholars, and the furniture.—Nothing was saved. No lives were lost, but all escaped without personal injury. The loss will not fall short of $30,000, with no insurance.—Besides this, one of the most valuable libraries in the State was destroyed, some of the volumes of which cannot be replaced, perhaps. The fire was purely accidental.

Democratic Reform Meeting.

At a numerous meeting of Democratic Reformers, held on the 24th instant, in the Sixth Ward, at the corner of Sherman and Seventh streets, Mr. E. STEINBERGS was called to the Chair, and Mr. E. GRAETZ, chosen Secretary.

The published resolutions adopted by the Democratic Reformers of the Seventh Ward, at a meeting held on the 20th instant, having been read, were submitted to the meeting and unanimously adopted, as follows:

Resolved, That the Reformers of the Second Ward, totally reject the Convention system and will only nominate candidates by a direct vote.

Resolved, That we take as our motto the words of the great Jefferson: "Take only citizens, who are HONEST and QUALIFIED, for office; and do not bind yourselves to parties."

Resolved, That we will, under no circumstances, support office-seekers by profession, and that we will punish every one by contempt who gives his vote for such men.

Resolved, That every Right thinking Reformer is hereby requested to work with diligence against corruption and to vote only for qualified and honest citizens. We would suggest the following as the most convenient mode to select candidates.

1. Call a Ward Mass Meeting, and request certain individuals to express publicly their opinions, and in case one should receive the preference as a candidate, to place the same on the People's Ticket.

2. After the same course had been pursued in the several Wards, a City Mass Meeting might be called, and the candidates for City Officers selected in the same way, thus constituting the true People's ticket.

The following additional resolutions were then offered and adopted:

1. Resolved, That no Alderman of the City of Milwaukee should be a Member of the Legislature, or a School Commissioner.

2. Resolved, That no criminal officer should be taken as a juryman.

3. Resolved, That another Reform meeting be held on the 3rd day of March, at half-past seven P. M. at Mr. Alexander's, corner of Sherman and Third Streets.

It was further resolved that the above resolutions be published in the German and English newspapers of this city. Adjourned.

C. STEINBERGS, President.

E. GRAETZ, Secretary.

OUR CHARTER ELECTION.—Although our Charter Election does not take place for a month yet, the note of preparation already begins to be sounded. We publish this morning, the preliminary proceedings of the Democratic Reformers in the Second and Sixth Wards. They turn a deaf ear to the News' party cat-calls, declare for radical reform, and express their preference for "honest and qualified men," without reference to party. They are right. No doubt, other Wards will follow the example of the Second and Sixth. It is already quite apparent that the tribe of professional Office-seekers and Office-holders, who cluster round the News, and hold their secret meetings in "the corner-room" over the Post Office, will utterly fail in the attempt to harness the Democracy in mass to their car, and secure a new lease of the snug berths they now occupy, under the convenient cover of "regular nominations." That game is at last played out, after costing the Tax-Payers of our City a pretty penny. No "regular nomination" will save an incompetent, or untrustworthy man from deserved defeat.

☞ The subjoined parody of Leigh Hunt's Abou Ben Adhem, is from the Salem (Mass.) Gazette. It is illustrative of the recent verdict of the Brooklyn jury that Lager Beer is not intoxicating:

Caliph ben Samuel, (may his tribe decrease!)
Awoke one night from a deep dream of peace,
And saw, beside a table sitting near,
A female angel, drinking lager beer,
And writing fast within a book of gold.
Exceeding wonder made the Caliph bold:
He asked "What do you write?" The angel made a pause;
Then said, "The names of those who love the temperance cause."
"And is mine one?" "I cannot find it here."
"Then write me one who loves light wine and beer."
The angel vanished; but the same next night,
And filled the room with a great wax-ing light;
She showed the names of those who were so blest,
And lo! the Caliph's name led all the rest.

STEALING A WATCH.—On Wednesday night policemen Beck and Just arrested a young man named Horace McOuen for stealing a watch from a woman in a house of bad repute on Market street. The woman, who is of doubtful character, made the complaint against McOuen. He was examined yesterday in the police court and committed in default of $300, to await the action of the Grand Jury. McOuen it seems lived in the house when he committed the theft, and belonged to that numerous class known as "pimps."

AUCTION AND COMMISSION BUSINESS.—Messrs. CHAS. A. HERTS & CO., late of New York, have recently opened an auction and commission establishment at 224 East Water Street, where they will carry on the business in its various branches. They have a large stock of silver ware and gold pens on hand, which they are now selling at wonderfully low prices; so says their advertisement. Call and see their goods.

THE LEAVES OF THE TEA PLANT gathered in early spring, are by far the best. As the season advances, the crop becomes larger, but the quality comparitively valueless! M. & P. have just received direct from the East, a choice supply o New Season's Tea. For richness, strength and choice flavor, they exceed the sorts generally sold.

CIRCUIT COURT, FEB. 26th.—JUDGE MCARTHUR PRESIDING.—In the case Jared Thompson Jr., the teacher indicted for assault upon a scholar, with intent to maim in the Town of Lake, the counsel closed their arguments yesterday morning, and after a brief and impartial charge by Judge McArthur the jury retired and were out deliberating upon a verdict all day.—Once the jury came in to ask of the Judge whether they could not find the defendant "guilty of an assault, without battery." From this we infer that they have either disagreed or acquitted Thompson before this time.

In the case of the State of Wisconsin against Emanuel Silverman, charged with larceny in shop, the jury brought in a verdict of guilty, but recommended the defendant to the mercy of the Court. The Judge deferred pronouncing sentence, until the motion for a new trial has been disposed of. Emanuel Silverman as most our readers are aware, keeps a clothing store on East Water street. The offence for which he has been tried, as we gathered it from hearing the principal witness, is this:

Some time ago an Irishman, whose name we have forgotten, came into Mr. Silverman's store to examine some articles of clothing, and after trying on between six and eight garments, and turning up-side-down as many more, he concluded that he had found a rig that would suit him and he asked the price of it. The clerk told it was worth $20 or $25. The customer objected to this, as he thought it was too high. Finally, after bartering for about an hour and a half, or so, he brought the clerk down in his price to $15, with which he expressed his satisfaction, and concluded to take the suit of clothes. The clerk did them up for him, and supposed that he was going to take them without any further ceremony, but after having some more talk, and further deliberation upon the subject, the customer made up his mind that he would not take the clothes then, but must go and see his brother first.

To this Mr. Silverman, who had previously said little to the man, rather objected, and told the customer, with considerable indignation that he, Silverman, did not believe that the other had any money. The customer then took out his pocket book, and exhibited a one dollar bill, which Mr. Silverman said he knew must be a counterfeit bill. The customer said it was good, and Mr. S, reaching across the counter asked the other to let him see it, which he did, and Silverman then put into his money drawer, saying "now pay me fifteen more and you may have the clothes." The customer objected and demanded his money, but Mr. Silverman refused to give it back to him, telling him that he would keep it as a deposit upon the clothes until the balance was paid. Some hard talk here took place on both sides, which resulted in Mr. customer's being ousted from the store rather faster than he came in. The offended customer then applied to a policeman, who arrested both Mr. Silvermon and his clerks who, after an examination before the police justice, were required to give bail for their appearance on the charge of compound larceny.

The defendant, no doubt, according to the technical letter of the law, is guilty of the offence with which he is charged; but whether he is not "more sinned against than sinning" is a question for philosophers to decide. As we published an account of this case once before, which we think reflected upon the defendant more severely than the nature of the case would warrant, we give this version of the matter in justice to him. The counsel for the defence in this case were J. E. Arnold and H. J. Paine, and the prosecution was conducted by District Attorney Mallory.

The next case tried was that of the State of Wisconsin vs. Chas. W. Mains and John Neuman, indicted for larceny. The prisoners, together with Otis N. Cole, were charged with stealing an overcoat, worth $40 or upwards, on the 20th January last. Cole plead guilty and was sworn as a witness against the other two.

The case was given to the Jury about 8 p. m. and after a brief absence they came into court, with a verdict of guilty against both prisoners. Gen. Paine, counsel for Mains, moved for a new trial in his case, on the ground that the evidence did not warrant a conviction. But the court overruled the motion and sentenced both prisoners to one year's imprisonment in the State Prison, one day in solitary confinement each the rest at hard labor.

At 7 p. m. the court adjourned till 9 o'clock this morning.

PROSPECTS OF THE LA CROSSE AND MILWAUKEE R. R.—The N. Y. Tribune of the 23d inst., contains the following letter from one of the Directors of the La Crosse & Milwaukee R. R., which furnishes some very gratifying information as to the certainty of its uninterrupted progress and speedy completion:

To the Editor of the N. Y. Tribune.

SIR:—We have very cheerful news from Madison and Milwaukee, and having now no office in New York, it is due to our friends in New York and to stock and bond holders, to inform them that we have the most positive assurances that no action is contemplated by the Legislature, or any State authority to disturb the land grant or withhold any right or attempt any interference with the Company, but in fact to favor its construction by Mr. Chamberlain, the contractor, within the time stipulated by his contract. Yesterday his notice of the payment of the interest on the Second Mortgage Bonds was received, which you will find in The Express, Tribune, and Herald to-morrow. Mr. Chamberlain has made such arrangements for means to continue a full force of laborers upon the road that he will not be required to resort to a sale of any bonds to pay his men or any other expenses connected with the work.

The amount required for the last forty miles of the road is contributed by our capitalists in this city, and I assure you that no contingency can interrupt its progress. The stockholders may rest assured that no possible event can place the road into the hands of the bondholders; and when La Crosse is reached, such will be its income from freight and passengers that not only the interest upon the Land Grant Bonds, but a large surplus will be realized, by which the present debt will be speedily extinguished, and the road extended as the interest of the stockholders may require and justify.

We are also informed that the work upon the Railroad west of La Crosse into southern Minnesota, by the aid of its liberal land grant, will be commenced early in the Spring, and which will pour into the La Crosse & Milwaukee Road a stream of travel equal to any Railroad in the United States.

We have removed the business office of the Company to the city of Albany, as a majority of the Directors are here to give such personal attention to the duties of the Board as are necessary; and by so doing we reduce expenses more than ten thousand dollars per annum, only leaving in New York a transfer agency for the convenience of the stockholders.

Very respectfully your ob't serv't,
D. V. N. RADCLIFF.

Albany, Feb. 21, 1858.

CHESS CLUB AT FOND DU LAC.—The Union says:—There was a very full meeting on Saturday night—and the organization was put in complete running order. The officers elect were, President, C. S. Hamilton; Vice Presidents, B. F. Moore and J. A. Eastman; Secretary, W. T. Coneys; Treasurer, W. S. Wells. This looks like doing something, the very names of the officers are an earnest of the success of the institution. We are confident that if the original plan is promptly carried out, the association will prove to be a great benefit to our young city.

POLICE COURT YESTERDAY.—Horace McOuen was examined on a charge of stealing a silver watch, and committed in default of $300 bail for trial before the Circuit Court.

Mary McGuire was fined $1 for being drunk.

BALMY AIRS AND MUDDY STREET.—These are luxuries that all the Milwaukeeans are rejoicing in at the present time. Before penning this paragraph we were about to launch out into an extravagant eulogy upon the delightful weather with which we have been favored for the past few days, basing our calculations upon the cloudless skies as seen from our sanctum window, but after taking a brisk walk to one or two of the rail road depots, and getting bedaubed and spattered with mud clear up to the topper-most extremity of our unmentionables, our poetical ideas of balmy airs and sunshine, all vanished, and for the present we must defer eulogizing too strongly upon the state of the weather although we very earnestly hope that it may continue as it is—that is overhead. Under foot it is perfectly horrible, and an immediate drying up is to be most devoutly wished for.

OUR MILWAUKEE HOTELS.—We copy the following complimentary notices of two of our Milwaukee Hotels from country exchanges:

WALKER HOUSE.—This is a first class hotel, kept in the best of order. There you will find commodious rooms, comfortable sleep, and first rate meals. You will also find Ostrando there, as gentlemanly and accommodating a boniface as e'er you met.

Take our advice and stop there.—Waukesha Republican.

AMERICAN HOUSE.—This well known Hotel, located in Milwaukee, has lately been refitted, refurnished and beautifully decorated. The gentlemanly proprietors, Messrs. Stearns & Stiles, have already won laurels from the travelling public for their generous hospitality to their patrons. We would advise all those going to Milwaukee to give them a call.—New Lisbon Republican.

XXXVth Congress—First Session.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 24.

SENATE—In SENATE, on the 24th inst. the claim of the Minnesota Senators to seats being under consideration, the following proceedings were had:

Mr. Johnson, of Arkansas, moved to lay the question on the table. Lost by a vote of 26 to 22.

Mr. Toombs said the whole question was, "is Minnesota a State?" He submitted a resolution referring the question of Mr. Shields to the Judiciary Committee, with instructions to inquire whether Minnesota was a State in the Union under the Constitution.

The army bill was then taken up for consideration. The pending proposition was the substitute of Mr. Johnson, of Tenn., for the employment of 4,000 volunteers. This was amended by reducing the number to 3,000. The bill was then discussed at length, and the substitute rejected by 23 against 25.

Mr. Hunter proposed as a substitute for the original bill, to increase the regular army by adding to it one regiment of dragoons and two regiments of infantry.

Mr. Pugh moved to amend Mr. Hunter's substitute, by authorizing the President to accept of the services of volunteers not exceeding 3,000, to serve as cavalry or infantry, for two years, unless sooner discharged. This was adopted by 27 against 26. The bill in this form was then reported to the Senate and rejected by 16 against 35.

An amicable personal explanation took place between Bell and Johnson.

Mr. Bell remarked that he did not say that he would disregard the instructions of the Tenn. Legislature, but that he would not obey them, nor did he say that he would vote for the admission of Kansas under the Lecompton Constitution. He was inclined to go against it, but would await new developments.

Mr. Seward begged leave to interpose, saying that he had paid particular attention to Mr. Bell's speech, and when Mr. Johnson replied, he saw that Mr. J. had misapprehended, when he spoke as if Mr. Bell had pledged himself to vote for the admission of Kansas under the Lecompton Constitution. Adjourned till Monday.

HOUSE.—In the House, the Matteson expulsion case was taken up and disposed of as appears below.

Mr. Giddings said the people of Mr. Matteson's Congressional District had a right to be represented on the floor of this House, but Mr. Matteson's absence shows conclusively that he ought not to be here. Neither the sickness of a wife, nor the death of a father, nor the illness of a friend should detain a member from his post. He rejoiced that the work of purification had been commenced by the Republican party, and invoked the House to establish a precedent by an immediate decision.

Mr. Hughes was opposed to a hasty action, and therefore moved the reference of the resolutions to the Judiciary Committee.

Mr. Smith, of Va., contended that it was the right and duty of the House to expel a member for improper conduct, but thought its action should be controlled by good and sufficient reasons. It was due to Mr. Matteson's constituents that the House should give them an opportunity to pass themselves on his conduct. He favored the reference to a select or other committee.

Mr. Nichols would refer the matter to the committee on the Judiciary. He doubted whether the House had the power to expel Mr. M again. He believed that Mr. M.'s trial was a fair one. Punishment followed it, yet Mr. Smith would punish him again for the same offence. He protested, in the name of justice, against such a proceeding. He wanted the power of the House limited by legislation, as to the particular manner of dealing with such questions of privilege.

Mr. Jones, of Tenn., said that he would expel Mr. M., not only as a punishment, but for the purification of the House. He would favor expulsion as long as he (Jones) should be a member of the House. If Mr. M.'s constituents should re-elect him, he should consider him morally disqualified for a member of the American Congress.

Mr. Curtis considered Mr. M. unworthy of association with members, and their self-respect required his expulsion.

Mr. Harris defended the resolution. He said that a gross outrage had been committed, and the House, by the expulsion of Mr. M. had removed a loathsome excrescence. They were not punishing him twice for the same offence, but only vindicating the character of the House. He would not be compelled to sit with felons and scoundrels if he could help himself. The country demanded Matteson's expulsion.

Mr. Morrell asked whether Matteson's constituents had demanded it, or whether there were any petitions for it.

Mr. Harris said he had received batches of letters and newspapers, but he did not know or care about petitions. The House was acting independent of Matteson's constituents.

Mr. Grow said the matter on which the charges against Matteson are based, was known to his constituents at the time he was elected to Congress. The gentleman from Illinois had said he would not sit here with rogues and villains, but continued Mr. Grow, the people of the congressional districts choose our associates. If members had this right—if they can say who shall sit here, they could exercise the power of tyrants. Suppose a convicted murderer was sent here, could the majority drive him out? He protested against such an assumption.

Mr. Sherman moved to lay the resolution on the table; rejected—61 against 122. It was then referred to a select committee—93 against 87.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.

Senate not in session.

HOUSE.—Mr. Grow gave notice that he should introduce a bill permitting the government to be sued, its creditors being the courts of the U. S.

Potter, of Wis., rose to a question of privilege, and read an article from the Norfolk Argus, describing a ridiculous scene in which himself and several others were represented to be actors. Mr. Potter denounced the writer as guilty of a deliberate falsehood—there was not a particle of truth in the statement.

The further consideration of Mr. Howard's resolution for the appointment of a select committee of investigation as to whether executive influence has been exerted for the control of the votes of members of the House, was postponed till Thursday.

John Cochrane and others have, during the past week, presented in the House an unusually large number of petitions for the enactment of a homestead bill. Those for the passage of a bankrupt law are also multiplying.

Mr. Smith, of Tennessee, said there was a spirit of revolution abroad, which unless checked, would eventuate in dissolution. For this spirit of revolution the representatives of a portion of the people are responsible, having started it on this floor. He was opposed to disunion, and he hoped it would never happen, but he believed that if the idea should get abroad, that the disruption of this confederacy was impossible. It would only lead to increased effort to effect it on the part of those determined to destroy it. He had no authority for saying that the rejection of Kansas, because of her slavery constitution, would occasion dissolution. He would tell the gentlemen, if dissolution should ever come, the States, and not Congress would bring it about.

The House went into a committee of the whole on the Indian appropriation bill.

An Incendiary Arrested.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 26.

Chas. L. Taylor, alias Landers, has been arrested for setting fire to the Pacific Hotel, and murdering Ephraim Drake, one of its inmates.—Dr. Staper, the landlord, and Chas. Waldness, the watchman of the hotel, were also arrested. An examination will be held to-morrow, when it is supposed will be developed one of the most atrocious and diabolical acts ever committed.

Horrible Outrage in Asiatic Turkey.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.

A letter from Jopps, published in the Tribune, this morning, gives an account of an atrocious deed. Five men broke into the house of Rev. Mr. Dixon, an American missionary, and killed his son-in-law, Frederick Grass Steinbeck, violated Steinbeck's wife, beat Mrs. Dixon in a horrible manner, and attempted to murder Mr. Dixon. The American Consul at Jerusalem has taken the matter in hand.

SATURDAY MORNING, FEB. 27.

"Only Two Parties,"

A few days since we commented briefly upon an "official" announcement in the Madison Argus, to the effect that there were now "but two parties in the Union, and these were Administration and Anti-Administration." The Argus has since followed up this intimation by openly rejoicing over the removal of the "democratic" Postmasters at Chicago, Columbus, &c., for the high crime of opposition to the Lecompton Swindle, and by the exulting declaration that Mr. Buchanan was determined "to retain only his friends in office." The News talks in a similar strain, and has made proclamation that "in less than thirty days every Democratic paper in this State" and elsewhere would be "united in support of the Administration." Of course, at the expiration of this probationary period, "every democratic paper," which has not given in its adhesion to Buchanan and Lecompton, will be formally excommunicated.

It is in view of these givings out by the Argus and News, which assume to lead and regulate the Democracy of Wisconsin, that the Oshkosh Courier, a decided democratic paper, addresses these queries to the Madison organ:

Does the Argus make a support of the Lecompton Constitution the basis of its classification? If it does, the Administration party in this State might hold a Mass Convention in a good sized omnibus, and not be incommoded for want of room. A similar condition of things existed when John Tyler was President, the said John and the federal office-holders, constituting the Administration party, the opposition being made up of the people at large, "and the rest of mankind."

We do not know whether the Argus will care to reply to these home questions. But whether it answers fully, or maintains "an expressive silence," the fact is undoubted that "support of the Lecompton Constitution" is the sole recognized test of orthodox Democracy; and that those members of the party who have such things as consciences and principles, must make up their minds to stifle the one and sacrifice the other, or else prepare to be drummed out of the Democratic camp as proclaimed deserters.

Kansas vs. Lecompton.

The following resolution, adopted, with great unanimity, by the Territorial Council of Kansas, speaks the sentiments of the People toward the Lecompton Villainy and evinces their unalterable determination never to submit to this mammoth wrong, come what may:

Resolved, That we, speaking for the people of Kansas, will regard the passage of the Lecompton Constitution by Congress as what it is intended to be—a declaration of war against us; and if that iniquity be consummated, relying on the justness and holiness of our cause, and the allied strength of those whose sympathies are with us, we will go into the fight, either to be conquered, or exterminated!

The only apology offered by the Doughfaces who sustain Lecompton, for the attempted imposition of this galling yoke upon the Free People of Kansas is, that it will settle the Slavery question and stop "agitation!" But he must be stone blind who does not see that the effect of this outrage will be precisely the reverse of this; and that so far from stopping "agitation," it will increase it ten fold. Indeed, the danger is imminent that the consummation of this great iniquity by the President and Congress will kindle the flame of CIVIL WAR, not in Kansas only, but throughout the country.

Losses by the Panic—A Lesson for the Future.

The North American copies the figures of Douglass & Co., and Tappan & Kellop, in relation to the failures in the country, which we gave the other day, and accompanies them with the following remarks:

The number of failures, it will be seen, is about two and a half per cent. of the whole number of firms, and of this two and a half per cent. less than one-half is total failure; or the actual failure is one to one and a quarter per cent of the number of firms and of the total sum credited. This then is the culmination of the commercial ruin so loudly proclaimed, and in view of which all production and all business ought to stop, it was said, until this vast "rottenness" was eliminated. We see it to be less than the insurance on most commercial shipments, in fact a sum absolutely incapable of shaking the confidence of any sagacious merchant, though known to be sure to be incurred in his year's business when the year began. The like proportion of losses was counted upon as a regular result a few years since, and when commerce was most active with the west and southwest in the average of twenty years past.

It is most unquestionable that the solvency of business with purchasers from the great cities has greatly improved within three years, that loss has been lost, and that one per cent., which is the probable loss of the past six months, is of trifling consequence of itself. The great loss is in the panic and the blockade of exchange caused by the asserted bankruptcy of the whole country. The wholesale merchant has suffered largely to sustain himself and his customers, the retailer to sustain himself, and the consumer because his own products could not be sold. And most of this sacrifice was enforced because money was suddenly locked up, and was no longer, as it had been and ought always to be, accessible as a means of transfer.

The losses of enforced stoppage of business bear heavily everywhere, but the lesson may be of some small service if it save us in future from becoming the prey of interested panic makers first, and of those clamorous promoters of panic next, who exaggerate and invent tremendous losses, to frighten businessmen to death, when the vast show of losses made in the present extraordinary case, is found to be a proportion absolutely too small to seriously affect any solvent creditor.

☞ The Washington Union, of Wednesday last, finds it necessary to come out with a "correct statement" of the Kolit and Grow difficulty. The Union had nothing to say of this matter at the time that all the other papers were occupied with it; and its volunteering a "correct idea" now, indicates a pressing necessity for the relief of Mr. Kolit, whose feelings since he stubbed his toe have been the reverse of agreeable. The Union describes the preliminaries to the fight as has been a thousand times done, and proceeds:

His (Grow's) reply being considered by Mr. Kolit offensive, the latter seized him by the collar, but immediately relinquished his hold, and was about resuming his seat, when an offensive remark of Mr. Grow induced Mr. Kolit to seize him by the throat. A struggle ensued, when Mr. Davis, of Mississippi, interfered to separate the parties, and pressing Mr. Kolit back, the foot of the latter became entangled in a chair and he partially fell. At the time Mr. Grow struck at him, but is supposed not to have reached him.

Report of the Committee on the Militia.

In the Senate, on Wednesday, Mr. Walsh, from the Committee on the Militia, submitted the following Report accompanying the bill for the organization of the Militia of this State:

The committee on Militia, to whom was referred Bill No. 164 S., a bill for an act providing for the organization, enrolling and discipline of the Militia of the State of Wisconsin, have had the same under consideration, and would respectfully report, that they deem the organization, enrollment and discipline of the Militia, or citizen soldiery of the State, to be a matter of no trifling moment, but on the contrary, one of great importance to the welfare, peace and prosperity of the State. While we do not believe it is the true policy of any Republican Government to maintain a large standing army, or expensive military establishment in time of peace, yet we are decidedly of the opinion that it is both wise and prudent to provide for and maintain a complete organization of all the able bodied citizens of the State liable to do military duty. Past experience has proved the importance of having some kind of military force to aid the civil arm of government, in cases of emergency, such as mobs, insurrections, or foreign invasions. As the regular army of the U. S. is at all times very small, and widely scattered over our vast territories and along our immense frontiers, they cannot be depended upon in a sudden emergency, because too far from the point of danger. During the war of the revolution, as well as the last war with Great Britain, the militia of the several States proved to be the great bulwark of our national defence. So also in the war with Mexico in many of the hard fought fields, our citizen soldiers proved themselves fully equal in courage and efficiency to the regular forces.

Your committee are fully of the opinion that an intelligent and well trained militia are far the strongest, cheapest, and most reliable military force upon which this or any other country can rely for the defence of its rights and liberties—A hireling soldiery never have that vital interest at stake in the defence of our country that the militia do. While the regular soldier fights only for pay, our militia fight for their homes, their firesides, their wives and children and invaluable liberties. A foreign foe may possibly annihilate such a force, but he can never conquer and subdue them. Hence we say it is both wise and prudent to maintain such an organization and discipline as will give an intelligent direction to this noble element of self defence for our free institutions. Let us not in our fancied security forget the advice of him who led our armies through the long and bloody struggle for Independence, that, "in time of peace we should prepare for war." Let us encourage the formation and drilling of uniform companies who shall perfect themselves in military discipline, and cultivate and keep alive that noble, generous and self-sacrificing love of country that was manifested by our ancestors, and which will lead their sons, if necessary, to pour out their blood free as water in defence of our common country.

Your committee are aware that there is a strong prejudice in the minds of many of our fellow citizens, against any organization or drilling of the militia, but we are persuaded that opinion is not well founded. According to the laws of Congress, this State is entitled to a certain quota of arms and military equipments, in proportion to the number of militia enrolled in the State and reported to the war department at Washington. If we have no organization and enrollment, we can make no report, and consequently, we loose our quota of arms, which, if obtained, would fully supply our uniform companies throughout the State. Those uniform companies distributed over the State, well trained and disciplined as they would be, under the bill presented would be ready at a moment's warning to aid the civil arm in executing the laws, quelling mobs, or insurrections, and in repelling foreign invasion.—Your committee believe that the surest way to prevent foreign invasion or any encroachments upon our rights from abroad is to let the world see and know that we have the ability to protect ourselves, and are prepared to do it at all hazards. In order to do this we must have a well organized and disciplined militia. Therefore, your committee would earnestly recommend the passage of the accompanying bill.

Regents of Normal School.

Governor Randall has sent in to the Senate the names of the following gentlemen, as Regents of the State Normal School, in place of those rejected by that body a few days since:

Term Expires Jan. 1st, 1859.

C. C. Sholes, Kenosha county.
Julius T. Clark, Dane county.
Luther H. Cary, Sheboygan county.

Term Expires Jan. 1st, 1860.

John Hodgson, Waukesha county.
James H. Howe, Brown county.
Hanmer Robbins, Grant county.

Term Expires Jan. 1st, 1861.

Silas Chapman, Milwaukee county.
O. F. Maxson, Pierce county.
H. E. Smith, Dodge county.

These nominations are, in the main, very good ones; but we think that the law itself, under which they are appointed, is open to serious objection; and that it ought either to be materially altered, or repealed. For one, we should prefer the latter remedy.

THE WEALTH AND IMPORTANCE OF OUR NEW WESTERN STATES.—The cursory reading now and then of a newspaper paragraph gives one but a faint idea of the great advance in population and wealth of some of the Western States, but a few years ago a wilderness. Writers have descanted on the marvellous spectacle of a great State in a year or two planted on the shores of the Pacific in consequence of the golden harvest there to be reaped, but we doubt even if the substantial growth in that case much exceeds that of Wisconsin; and some other States where no gold has yet been found.

We were strongly impressed with this fact upon looking at the Directory of the State of Wisconsin, which embraces a list of all the business men in its limits, a formidable list indeed, and sufficient, almost, to supply her people with all they might desire without dependence upon the world beyond. Each of these Western States in Territory much larger than England, is capable in the future of reaching in population and wealth the proportions of many of the great empires of old.

In this epitome of her industry, we find dealers in Agricultural Implements in number nearly one hundred and fifty, over one hundred architects, eighty or ninety auctioneers, about seventy bankers, about eighty-five banks, six hundred and eighty blacksmiths, seventy boat builders, one hundred and fifty book-sellers, nearly eight hundred boot and shoe dealers, over six hundred boot and shoe makers, one hundred and twenty brewers, one hundred and thirty brick makers and dealers, twenty-seven brokers, three hundred butchers, two hundred and fifty cabinet makers, fifteen hundred carpenters, dealers in china, glass and earthenware eight hundred and forty, clergymen nearly seven hundred, wholesale and retail clothiers about three hundred and fifty, coach and carriage builders about two hundred, dealers in stores eight hundred, dentists one hundred and thirty, dress makers three hundred and twenty-five, druggists retail, two hundred and fifty, and wholesale fifty-four, retail dry goods dealers about one thousand; of dealers in exchange there are sixty, of expresses thirty-four, of dealers in flour and grain about two hundred and fifty.

Of flour mills there are two hundred and seventy; furniture dealers one hundred and thirty; of retail grocers twelve hundred and seventy; of wholesale do about seventy-five; of hardware dealers two hundred and seventy-five: of dealers in hats, caps and furs one hundred and seventy-five. But we cannot continue the list, suffice it to say that there are several hundred lawyers, plenty of physicians, hundreds of hotels, over a thousand dealers in what are denominated "Yankee Notions, wholesale and retail," and about two thousand saw mills. We have, however, given enough to show what Wisconsin now is, while it is but a tithe of the greatness she may attain in the future.—Boston Traveller.

From India.

GENERAL WINDHAM'S DEFEAT.—The defeat and heavy loss which General Windham suffered from the body of India mutineers known as the Gwalior Contingent has been the subject of frequent remark. The following from the London papers brought by the Niagara is the most succinct and minute account of the disaster we have yet had:

Before proceeding further it will be necessary to correct one or two errors which crept into my account of General Windham's engagement sent home by the last mail. That account was written on the authority of three letters from the scene of action. But composed hurriedly, and before the ideas of the writers had had time to cool, they were contradictory in their details.—The plain facts of the case are as follows:

General Windham had been left with a force of from two to three thousand men, receiving daily from two to three thousand more, under Sir Colin Campbell to relieve Lucknow.—It was known that the Gwalior Contingent were advancing from Calpee. Sir Colin was therefore anxious to relieve Lucknow and to return to Cawnpore in sufficient time to meet the enemy and crush him. But on the 28th of November, Windham, having heard of the advance of the enemy, moved out eight miles along the canal in a due Westerly direction to meet him. At a place called Bhowsee, on the Pandoo Nuddy, he met their advanced guard, consisting of 3000 men, about half of whom were regulars, under Koour Singh. Windham attacked and beat them, after a severe contest of an hour and a half's duration, taking three guns. We pursued them for about two hours, their cavalry covering their retreat.

In the course of the pursuit the Sowars attempted to charge the 34th; but these latter threw themselves into a square, received the charge, and then poured in such a terrible fire that almost every saddle was emptied. Our troops then returned near Cawnpore, and encamped in a plain, bounded on the Northeast side by a brick-kiln, and on the Southwest by a thick cover of trees and bushwood, with the city in their rear. The position was about the worst that could be taken up, for beyond the brushwood the country was full of rawines, up which, and under cover of the brushwood the enemy could advance within a few yards of our position. It turned out as might have been expected. The enemy, who were excellently served by their spies, found out the weakness of our position, and, making a detour in the night, appeared on the morning of the 27th drawn up close to our left flank.

Meanwhile Windham, leaving his camp standing, had advanced in the direction in which he was expecting them, when he was surprised by a galling fire being opened on our left flank.—He at once formed up and endeavored to make head against the enemy, but his position had been turned, and if the enemy had had a leader they might easily have interposed between our troops and the station at Cawnpore, intrenched camp and all. Happily, they did not attempt so daring a manœuvre, but contented themselves with a very heavy fire. Our guns were replying to this when intelligence was brought to the General that the enemy were in possession of our camp. Windham started off at once with a small detachment to repulse them; it was a false alarm, but almost simultaneously with his departure for the camp our troops gave away, and retired toward the intrenchment.

The rebels, so unaccustomed to a backward movement on the part of European troops, hesitated at first to follow, suspecting a "ruse," but they soon regained their senses, and followed up our disheartened troops. Brigadier Wilson, with the 64th Havelock's corps, came out to cover their retreat. The rebels, however, took possession of the standing camp, and everything it contained. That night the enemy, up to this point, composed of the Gwalior contingent force and Koour Singh's rabble, were joined by the Nena Sahib and his brother. They advanced direct upon Cawnpore, obtained possession of the city without firing a shot, and prepared to invest our intrenchment. They formed an arch around it, their left resting on the Ganges, their centre at the Protestant church, and their right on the city, at the point where it touches the canal.—On the 28th, at early dawn, they opened a tremendous fire from their left and left centre against the intrenchment. Under cover of this they detached a strong party against the assembly rooms.

In this were stored 11,000 rounds of Enfield cartridges, the mess plate of four Queen's regiments, pay-masters' chests, and baggage of all descriptions, beside shoes for ten thousand men. Several private individuals had taken out their property the evening before, but in the confusion of the retreat the General had no time to attend to it. The consequence was, that when attacked next day by overwhelming numbers, the assembly rooms, and all the above mentioned stores, fell into the hands of the enemy. Having achieved this success, the enemy, in full possession of the grand trunk road, on which they placed their guns, moved down, forming an acute angle with the river toward our intrenchment. Their flanks being protected, they were able to concentrate their greatest strength on our front. Our men, who had been moved out to repulse them, were consequently driven back step by step toward the intrenchment. But in the afternoon the 64th made a desperate and most gallant effort to relieve the fortunes of the day.

A small detachment of them, under Captain Wright, had been placed in the Baptist chapel, forming an outpost in front of the enemy's left. Seeing the enemy advancing, he placed his men in skirmishing order and endeavored to check them. Whilst he was thus employed the main body of the corps, reduced to about 300 men, under Brigadier Wilson, came in sight. Accustomed to Havelock's tactics, the Brigadier pushed on under a most galling fire to a small rising ground, whence he could command a view of a battery of guns, which were doing terrible execution on our centre. He pointed out the guns to the 64th, and gave the order to charge. Ranged behind the enemy's guns were 2,000 of the choicest Gwalior troops, flushed with victory. On these the three hundred of the Sixty fourth rushed. Their charge was irresistable. Already three of the guns were spiked, they were preparing to do the same by a fourth, when the rebels, recovering from their surprise, took heart and came at them.

Then ensued a terrible loss of officers and men. Captain M'Crea, who had spiked two guns with his own hand, was cut down whilst endeavoring to spike a third. Col. Wilson was mortally wounded by a rifle bullet through the left breast. Capt. Morphy was cut down at the guns. Lieut. Parsons, of the 1st Fusiliers, had the bone of his right arm shattered. Major Stirling was shot.—Lieut. M'Kinnon, and Lieut. Gibbons, were left wounded on the battle field. No British soldiers ever fought better; but what could 300 men do against nearly 2000? They were left unsupported, and finally after achieving marvels, a small remnant out their way back to the intrenchment.

Had the 64th been supported when they had taken the guns, the Gwalior rebels must have been defeated, for they were cut in two, and they could not have withstood the simultaneous charge of two thousand British soldiers. Instead however, of directing the attack on one part of the enemy's line, General Windham contented himself with isolated sorties. Their partial success showed how much might have been effected under a bolder plan.

The troops returned that evening to the intrenchment dispirited, and almost savage.—They had left several wounded on the field, and they had lost confidence in their leader. All were downcast, when providentially Sir Colin Campbell rode into Cawnpore. His countenance as he crossed the bridge, was very stern; but when he reached the entrenchment, and found that the scores which had been accumulated with so much labor had disappeared in one night, he was perfectly furious. Few would have cared to change places with the defeated General. All sorts of stories are current as to the manner and language in which the gallant veteran gave vent to his indignation; it were needless to repeat them, he soon showed by his acts the opinion which he had formed. General Windham was transferred to the command of the Umballah division; General Depuis, who commands the Royal Artillery, was removed to Dumdum, near Calcutta; the command of the station of Cawnpore was bestowed on Brigadier Inglis, who had so greatly distinguished himself in the defence of Lucknow.

"UNHAPPY IRELAND," NO LONGER.—One of the Dublin papers thus raises a shout of grateful exultation over the present condition of Ireland: "We can hardly be grateful enough for the high position our own Ireland holds. Here no banks have stopped payment; nay, by wisely assisting trade, they are paying unheard of dividends. No manufacturing establishments have failed, throwing out of employment numerous hands. The storm reached us and passed over, leaving us unscathed. Possibly we are deprived of the profits resulting from the gigantic factories; so also, are we free from their fluctuations. Probably the terrible lessons which our country learned at so fearful a price in former visitations wrought their effect, and we are wiser and better men.—Thanks be to God, our harvests were great.—What trade we have is steady; our people have abundant work; the necessaries of life are cheap. We are informed that thousands of our peasantry who left our famine stricken land years ago are threatening to return. Let them come; they will be welcomed. We shall find work for all.—Glad, only too glad, shall we be, if, in the western land they sought and now fly from, they have learned industry and prudence."

WRIGHTY OFFICIALS.—The Baltimore Patriot says they have in that city ten men, belonging to the police force, whose combined weight is 2283 pounds, and combined height 61 feet 9 inches, being an average of over six feet to each man.

The Ideal Yankee.

Believing that there must be some truth in the typical idea which every nation gives of itself in the symbolical figures by which it represents its nationality, we must confess that the emblematic Yankee is not calculated to engender feelings of pride and vain-glory in our bosoms. In fact we never see one of those pictorial embodiments of the smartest people in all creation without feeling as strong a desire to give him a kick, as John Randolph used to experience whenever he met a sheep; and when he is placed by the side of that bluff, hearty and honest faced old gentleman, who is supposed to represent the nationality of Great Britain, the Mr. Bull of Punch in his breeches and top boots, we cannot choose but blush at our National ideal.

It would have been a great blessing for us if, when our ancestors were inventing a heraldic emblem of the nation, they had employed some artist to paint a standard figure as the representative man of the race. We have now the mortification of seeing ourselves disfigured and presented by a mean looking caricature of humanity, long, lean, sharp and cadaverous, with a rascally expression of face, wearing a rusty bell-crowned hat, ill-fitting boots, a preternatural swallow-tailed coat, with its owners tail short of his legs, tugging hopelessly at a pair of attenuated straps. This is the figure of which we have made of ourselves in sport, but which the ill-natured world has adopted in earnest at our own instigation, till foreign artists, whenever they wish to represent an American, gravely and invariably adopt our national scarecrow for a model.

Our good-natured British friends sometimes intensify the idiosyncracy of our national eidolon, by putting a broad-brimmed hat upon his head and a cat o' nine tails in his hands, typical of his mission to whip all creation in the future, and an indefinite number of lazy Canadees and Sambos ad interim. And now Harper's Weekly, intending to typify the respect of America for a British hero, whose generous fame has become the common property of mankind, gives us a picture of this disreputable vagabond, standing with his hat off, while the phantom funeral of HAVELOCK passes by, like a cloud in the distance.

This is a ridiculous, but an intolerable grievance. Our Ideal Yankee cannot be put to serious uses in art. He is altogether a contemptible looking sneak, and we are doing ourselves immense injury by permitting such a scarecrow to go before the world as a fitting emblem of ourselves. Surely it would be a patriotic office to begin a reform in this matter. The scurvy looking Downcaster, who has been doing model duty for the Republic, must be thrown overboard at once, if we value our reputation for good looks. Since we collectively enjoy the privilege which is denied to us individually of painting our own portrait, we ought to try to conciliate truth with fancy in some more presentable shape. In the present revival of the arts, we offer this as an excellent opportunity for some of our native artists to make a handsome figure, themselves, by contriving a decent figure for the nation, in which the process of Apelles shall not be, as it now is, reversed, and all the worst traits of our national entity combined to the exclusion of all the better.—N. Y. Times.

The Corn and Wheat Crops.

Correspondence of the Cincinnati Gazette.

TERRE HAUTE, (Ind.) Feb. 20.

I see reports of crops in your paper, from different sections of the country, but none from ours. I take the liberty of sending you a statement of the condition of crops in this section.—The Corn on the clay soil and river and creek bottomed lands, is damaged nearly one half. By assorting, the farmers may get enough for bread and seed. But on our prairie, sandy soil, the Corn is much better. A number of our farmers think their crops, with very little assorting, will do for seed, and a very large portion of it will answer for shipping in the Spring. The farmers from the North and West are coming here for seed. Our growing crop of Wheat looks well.—We have at least one half of our last year's crop of Wheat on hand. It is selling at 60c and Corn at 20c per bushel. Respectfully Yours,

S. D.

A WILD SUNDAY.—Sunday was a carnival indeed to the last population of New York. People disposed for jollity have not for years enjoyed so favorable an opportunity for frolic as Sunday afforded, and it was seized with such avidity by such as were not over scrupulous, about breaking the Sabbath. The weather was cold, the sun brilliant, the snow fresh and just deep enough to give no trouble in "breaking the road." From 8 o'clock until late at night, the city resounded with the music of sleigh bells, and the most dashing turnouts were driven the length of Broadway and the avenues at the most break-neck speed. There were no omnibus sleighs out, and very few wheeled carriages; so the light punt, and heavier private sleighs from the simple team to the four and six in hand had the streets all to themselves.—N. Y. Express

NOVEL CURE FOR LOVE.—A new and amusing cure for love has lately been found effective, in a fashionable Parisian harbourg. The son of a wealthy nobleman became enamoured of his father's concierge's (door porter,) and determined to marry her. The aristocratic papa opposed; but moved at last by the despair of his son, gave his consent with the proviso that the gentleman should go to sea twelve months before the marriage. Shortly after his departure, the father's son returned from his year's voyage, he was horrified to find, instead of the slender elegant girl he left an immensely fat woman, as big as two Albanis rolled into one. Of course, the ruse was successful, and the unfortunate victim of good cheer has been pensioned off.

MOVEMENT OF THE EARTH.—The mildness of the present season has drawn forth many curious speculations as to the causes. A change of the currents of the ocean, and the approach of the Gulf stream, by fifty miles or more, towards our coast, have been announced as remarkable facts, which may have some relation to the subject.—We will now add another still more curious fact to the consideration of our readers:

"The British Astronomer Royal, in his last annual report, refers to certain mysterious changes of level and direction in one of the instruments, one occurring with changes of temperature, the other at the equinoxes, and he imagines some movement of the earth itself to be the cause of these remarkable phenomena."

Those who are acquainted with the perfection of the instruments used in great Observatories, the permanency of the direction of the transit and equatorial instruments, and the accuracy of the measurements, depending on their accuracy, will understand that these mysterious changes alluded to, are in the highest degree important and astounding. Is the earth changing the inclination of its axis?

IRON MANUFACTORIES IN AND AROUND PHILADELPHIA.—From a statement in the North American we learn that ten thousand workmen, finding homes constantly within the city of Philadelphia, are engaged in the commercial manufacture and working of iron, and two thousand of the same class alternate between the city and the country in its vicinity. The finished work made in the city and its immediate suburbs has a commercial value of twelve millions of dollars, and the share belonging to the city, though located a few miles from it, of three millions more.

☞ Some one says that "human heads are like hogsheads—the less they contain the louder report they give of themselves. The smaller the calibre of the mind, the greater the bore of a perpetually open mouth."

ANOTHER BIG MASS.—Letters received yesterday from Ontonagon, announce the discovery of another monster mass of copper at the Minnesota mine, which, from indications, is larger than the one found in 1856, which will produce 600 tons of pure copper.—Detroit Advertiser.

SHOCKING DEATH.—Mr. John Murray of this town went into Geneva woods on Thursday last, for a load of wood. On the following morning about ten o'clock he was found dead, under his sled, the team standing still in the road. Suspicions are entertained of foul play.—Delevan Northron.

OLD TIMES AND NEW.

We copy the following lines, read at the New England Society's Festival, at New York, December 22, 1840, by Allen C. Spooner, of Boston, from the Courier:

"Twas in my easy chair at home,
About a week ago,
I sat and puffed my light cigar,
As usual, you must know.

I mused upon the Pilgrim flock
Whose luck it was to land
Upon a virgin rock,
Among the Plymouth sand.

In my mind's eye, I saw them leave
Their mother beaten turf—
Before them spread the wintry wilds,
Behind, rolled ocean surf.

Alone that little handful stood,
While savage foes lurked nigh,
Their creed and watchword, "Trust in God,
And keep your powder dry."

Imagination's pencil then
That first stern winter painted,
When more than half their number died
And sinniest spirits fainted.

A tear unbidden filled one eye,
My smoke had filled the other;
One stern and stately sight at such a time,
Which quite the sinnes bother.

I knew I was alone—but lo!
Let him who dares, deride me—)
I looked, and, drawing up a chair,
Down sat a man beside me.

His dress was ancient, and his air
Was somewhat strange and foreign—
He civilly returned my stare,
And said, "I'm Richard Warren!"

"You'll find my name among the list
Of hero, sage and—privy;
Who, in the Mayflower's cabin signed
The first New-England charter.

"I could some curious facts impart—
Perhaps, some wise suggestion—
But then, I fear, you'll take it ill
And running o'er with questions."

"Ask on," said I, "I'll do my best
To give you information,
Whether of private men you ask,
Or our renowned nation."

Says he, "First tell me what is that
In yon compartment narrow,
Which seems to dry my eye-balls up
And scorch my very marrow."

His finger pointed to the grate—
Said I—"That's Lehigh coal,
Dug from the earth"—no shock his head—
"It is, upon my soul!"

I then took up a bit of stick,
One end was black as night,
And rubbed it on the VERY best part
Of the hearth, which is, a sudden light!

My guest drew back, uprolled his eyes,
And strove his breath to catch—
"What necromancy's that," he cried—
Quoth I, "A friction match."

Upon a pipe just overhead,
I turned a little screw,
When forth, with instantaneous flash,
Three streams of lightning flew.

Up rose my guest—"Now heaven me save,"
Aloud he shouted, then,
"Is that hell fire?"—"Nay, gas," said I,
"We call it hydrogen."

Then forth into the fields we strolled,
A train came thundering by
Drawn by thunnorting iron steed,
Swifter than eagle's fly.

Rumbled the wheels, the whistle shrieked,
Far streamed the smoky cloud,
Echoed the hills, the valley shook,
The flying forests bowed.

Down on his knees, with hands upraised
In worship, Warren fell—
"Great is the Lord our God," he cried,
"He doeth all things well.

"I've seen his chariots of fire,
The forerunner, too, thereof,
O, may I ne'er provoke His ire,
Nor at His threatenings scoff."

"Rise up, my friends, rise up," said I,
"Your fears are all in vain—
That was no chariot of the sky,
'Twas the New York mail train."

We stood within a chamber small—
Sent some the news to know,
From Worcester, Springfield and New York,
Texas and Mexico.

It came—it went—silent but sure—
In stared, smiled, bur-tout laughing;
"What witchcraft's that?" "It's what we call Magnetic telegraphing."

Once more we s'epped into the street!
Said Warren, "What is that
Which moves along across the way
As softly as a cat?"

"I mean the thing upon two legs,
With feathers on its head—
A monstrous hump below its waist,
Larger as a feather bed:

It has the gift of speech, I hear,
But sure it can't be human?"
"My amiable friend," said I,
"That's what we call a woman."

"Eternal powers! it cannot be,"
He said in a tone that faltered;
"I loved the woman in my day,
But, oh! they're strangely altered."

I showed him, then, a new machine
For turning eggs to chickens,
A labor-saving hennery,
That beats the very dickens.

Thwast, he strongly grasped my hand,
And said, "'Tis plain to see
This world is so enormously-fortified,
'Twill never do for me."

"Your telegraphs, your railroad trains,
Your gas lights, friction matches,
Your hump backed women, rocks for coal,
Your thing which chickens hatches,

"Have turned the earth so upside down,
No peace is left within it."
Then whirling round upon his heel,
He vanished in a minute.

Forthwith my most voracious pen
Wrote down what I had heard,
And here, dressed up in doggerel rhyme,
You have it word for word.

ON EARLY RISING.—One of our contemporaries disposes of the virtue as follows:

"We have watched, he says, those fellows who are the early risers, and as a general thing they are the first shops who go to the groceries of a morning. It is all moonshine about the smartest and greatest men being the early risers. It might have been so in old times, but now-a-days when you see a chap moving about very early, you may be certain he is after a drink."

Lord Brougham's son, who is yet a minor and consequently dependent upon his father for support, has been noted somewhat of late for his attention to a young actress in the French theater. His father recently wrote the following laconic epistle:

"If you do not quit her, I'll stop your allowance."

To which the son replied:

"If you do not double it, I'll marry her."

The son will enjoy a seat in Parliament when he becomes of age.

Manitou City Town and Land Company.

A. B. PAUL, one of the proprietors, is now in his city for the purpose of securing machinery for mills, &c. All persons contemplating moving West early in the coming season, are cordially invited to call and examine our plans, maps, &c., at the American House. A good opportunity is also offered to mechanics and tradesmen of all kinds, to secure—"even with limited means"—good homes in one of the richest valleys of the Northwest.

See pamphlet containing sketch, &c., of country adjacent, and plan of the proprietors in building up an important point on the Sioux River, Iowa. We want actual settlers. Call and see us and talk the matter over. dec230d1f

For the Afflicted Everywhere.

MONTGOMERY, May 11, 1857.

I do hereby certify that I have been using Dr. De Grath's Electric Oil, 89 South Eighth street, Philadelphia, for Spinal Affection, a disease of twenty-two years standing, with greater relief than from any of the thousand applications I have ever made use of. I say this with more confidence of its virtue in this particular disease, since having heard another case in our city, of four years standing, which was instantaneously relieved by application of Dr. De Grath's Electric Oil. I write this for the benefit of those unfortunate persons everywhere who may be suffering from this disease, and as a debt I owe Prof. D. De Grath for having found such a discovery. You that have not got it, write for it—get it by all means, if you wish to get relief. It may be necessary to say that I have no interest in the selling of Dr. De Grath's Electric Oil, and that the Professor is a stranger to me but that I shall always remember him with gratitude.
